The Affordable Care Act requires organizations to provide employees with form 1095-C, which provides information about the type of health insurance offered to you as well as the health care coverage provided to you and your family members. The graphic below provides you an overview of the key sections of this new form.

1. Your employer’s information, including the contact number to call if you have questions.
2. Your personal information
3. Reports the name, social security number or date of birth, and health care coverage information for each individual covered under your employer’s health plan.
4. Part II Employee Offer and Coverage
5. Part III Covered Individuals
6. Provides the IRS information to administer the employer shared responsibility provision. However, this doesn’t affect your eligibility for a premium tax credit.

Describes the coverage your employer offered to you and your spouse and dependents, if applicable. The codes in this section provide information that helps determine whether you were eligible to receive a premium tax credit through an Exchange.
